This induction will be the number of hours that he imployee was rostered to work on that day build in it work. This applies even though the imployee's leave account is debited by a different number of hours from the employee's in all phours (as defined).

Example 1

If an employee, working 7.25 hours a day, becomes ill and is absent for 4 hours then 4 hours is deducted from the employee's sick leave balance.

Example 2

Variation of ordinary working hours

If a department's system for recording particulars of leave granted to an employee is based on working hours and the daily hours (as defined) of the employee change, the leave entitlements accumulated by the employee are also to be recorded in hours and the leave entitlements accumulated by the employee are also to be recorded in hours.

The formula for this conversion is as follows -

LAC = LBC x HAC HBC Where:

- LAC (leave entitlement after change) means the hours of leave to which the employee is entitled after the change.
- LBC (leave entitlement before change means the employee's leave entitlement expressed in hours before the change.
- HAC (daily hours after change) means the employee's daily hours (as defined) after the change.
- HBC (daily hours before change) means the employee's daily hours (as defined) before the change.
