Overview

Tenants residing in Government Employee Housing are eligible to apply to purchase their home by private treaty.

The program provides opportunities for tenants to purchase their homes and reside permanently in the areas that they work, thereby securing a commitment to the local community and supporting the ongoing delivery of government services.

The program will also assist in reducing the ongoing costs of managing and maintaining government-owned residential properties.

Purpose of this document

This document aims to provide clear policy guidelines and procedures for Department of Housing and Public Works (DHPW) officers to ensure the effective management and consistent implementation of the Government Employee Housing (GEH) Sales to Tenants Policy.

Scope

This document is written for use by Department of Housing and Public Works officers and Government Employee Housing tenants.

Policy Principles

An expression of interest from the existing tenant to purchase the government-owned dwelling (including land) in which they reside will be viewed favorably and progressed to sale, subject to the following conditions.

Conditions affecting the sale of properties

- Applicants must be the tenant of the property. Tenants may purchase their home individually, in the name of a company, as trustee, or with another person as joint tenant or tenant in common.
- Sales will not occur if the property is in an area where there is a shortage of appropriate alternative accommodation to support the delivery of government services, for example Indigenous and remote communities.
- The sale price is non-negotiable, based on the valuation by an independent, registered valuer. The length of time a tenant has occupied a property has no influence on the sale price.
- The property will be sold on an “as is, where is” basis. The sale price will not be adjusted for any improvements to the property funded by the tenants.
- If the applicants have outstanding debts or are in breach of the tenancy agreement, the sale will not proceed.
- Any potential conflict of interest with the discharge of the applicant’s duties as a government employee should be resolved before a sale agreement is entered.

Procedures

Application Process

Eligible tenants will be able to apply to purchase their home by lodging a formal application form (Attachment 1) and an administration fee of $150 made payable to the Department of Housing and Public Works.

Administration Fee

The administration fee of $150 will be fully refunded:

- If the property is determined by the department as not being available for sale.
- If the property is withdrawn from the sale process by the department at any stage.
- If the property is withdrawn from the sale process by the applicant, prior to an independent valuer being engaged to conduct the property valuation.
- If the property proceeds to sale. The sale price will be adjusted to discount the administration fee.

Sale Price

The sale price will be based on a valuation undertaken by an independent, registered valuer engaged by the Department of Housing and Public Works. A copy of the valuation report will be provided to the eligible tenant.

The sale price will be at valuation and is not negotiable. Valuations are to remain current for a period not exceeding three (3) months.

The length of tenancy will not influence the sale price.

Any outstanding debts in relation to the tenancy must be paid in full prior to settlement on the property sale, which will form part of the contract conditions.

Sales to Tenant Process

The Department of Housing and Public Works' process includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- Assess if a property is available for sale and advise tenant within 20 business days of receipt of the application form and the administration fee payment.
- Condition audit report/building inspection. (This includes a check if there is an approved safety switch and smoke alarms in the property. This is required prior to sale, in accordance with the Fire and Rescue Service Act 1990.) It should be noted that this is not the standard building inspection that would normally be undertaken by the purchaser of a property.
- Engage an independent, registered valuer to undertake a market valuation of the property.
- Advise the tenant of the sale price, provide a copy of the valuation report and seek agreement to proceed to sale.

- Tenant to sign agreement form to purchase the property at the sale price. Tenants have one month from the date of the letter advising the sale price to return the agreement form. Extensions of time are at the department's discretion.
- Prepare contract of sale and send to the tenant for execution.
- Department's authorised delegate executes the contract.
- Property settlement process.
- Terminate the rental agreement.
- Update departmental records regarding the sale of the property.

Conflicts of Interest

The Code of Conduct for the Queensland Public Service requires that, where a public service employee has a personal interest that conflicts with the discharge of the employee's duty, that conflict is to be disclosed and appropriately managed. The Public Service Act 2008 requires a public servant who has a conflict of interest to disclose this to the employee's chief executive and to take no further action relating to the matter unless authorised by the chief executive.

One example in which a conflict of interest may arise in relation to a proposed sale under this policy is where an applicant is, as a result of his or her employment in the public service, able to influence decisions made by the Department of Housing and Public Works, or another Department or government agency, in relation to the sale.

To avoid any such conflict of interest, applicants must as part of the application process disclose the Department or agency with which they are employed and the position they hold. Applicants must also declare that they have no conflict of interest.

If the Department of Housing and Public Works considers that entry into a contract would create a conflict of interest, the conflict must be resolved before a contract is entered. The steps taken to resolve the conflict will depend on the circumstances of each case. For example, it may be appropriate to take steps to ensure that the applicant is not in a position to take any further action on behalf of the State in relation to the sale of their property. The employee must also disclose the potential conflict, and the steps taken to resolve it, to his or her chief executive.
